TWADDLE SECOND VICTIM

INJURED FIREMAN DIES AT ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

Hopes Had Been Entertained After Sunday's Operation That He Might Recover.

Arthur Twaddle, the fireman that was so badly hurt last Wednesday in the accident on Lake avenue and Superior street, died from the results of his injuries at St. Luke's hospital yesterday morning. Twaddle underwent an operation Sunday night and a clot of blood was removed from beneath the frontal bone in his head. He was very weak after the operation, although he partially recovered consciousness. Favorable hopes were entertained for his recovery Monday afternoon, but he began to sink rapidly early yesterday morning and passed away at 6 o'clock.

Arthur Twaddle was 29 years of age and unmarried. He joined the fire department in May, 1897, and is the son of George Twaddle of 700 Twenty-first avenue west. He was a member of Court Duluth Independent Order of Foresters and of the local order of Orangemen.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of the father of the dead fireman, Twenty-first avenue west. A committee from the fire department consisting of Assistant Chief Boynton, J. L. Quinby and John Smith will have charge of the funeral arrangements, which will be conducted in the same manner as those over the remains of Fireman Finlayson.

Twaddle and Finlayson were riding together on the foot board of Truck No. 3 when the accident happened last Wednesday. When the truck struck the fender of the car both men were thrown against the curb and caught under the heavy truck. It was at first thought that Twaddle's only injury was a broken thigh, but symptoms of concussion of the brain developed toward the end of the week.
